

Instructions for Non-Campus Community Members to Receive Emergency Info

Here is a way for you to receive the same emergency notifications that members of our campus community do through our CatawbAlerts system. Here's how:

We have set up a listserv list that will be copied on messages that are sent out via the normal emergency alerts process. People should be able to subscribe to this list with their e-mail address or text address (using the text to e-mail feature of most services). The procedure is as follows:

Send an e-mail (or text) to the following address:

Catalerts-subscribe@mailman.catawba.edu.

You should receive a message back asking if you want to be added to the list. You can reply to the message as described or click on the web link and appropriate button to complete the process. Once that is done, you should receive alerts that are sent out similar to the other members of the campus.

When you no longer want to get messages, you must do the following:

Send an e-mail (or text) to the following address:

Catalerts-unsubscribe@mailman.catawba.edu

You will need to follow the instructions to remove yourself, by clicking the web link and the unsubscribe button or replying per the directions.

Please note that we send out weather delays and closing messages using this system as well as dangerous incident messages, so you'll see what members of our campus community see. We try not to overuse this system because we want people to know that when it is used, it is for an important matter. If you do not want to join this listserv, please be aware that all of Catawba's emergency alerts also appear on the main page of our website (www.catawba.edu) and on our social media sites when a CatawbAlert is issued.
